FROM THE BOOK OF DR. MORELL MACKENZIE

ON THE DISEASE AND DEATH OF EMPEROR FREDERICK.

His Accusations of Incompetency Against the German Physicians Far More Sweeping Than It Was Supposed It Would Be. He Says Their Repeated Blunders Gave the German Emperor His Death-Blow.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A special to the World from London, says:

The abstract of Sir Morell Mackenzie's book upon Emperor Frederick's disease and death, already published, is simplified by the full text of the volume which is just made public here for the first time. In a few days this book will be the subject of burning controversy in both hemispheres. Dr. Mackenzie's accusations of incompetency against the German physicians are far more sweeping than it was supposed he would make them. In fact, he unequivocally says that their repeated blunders gave Unter Fritz his death-blow. The famous physician begins his preface with this quotation from Henry IV.: "Mark, now, how plain a tale shall put you down."

He says: "It has been a painful task to me to write the following pages, not because there is anything in the charges recently brought against me by some of my German colleagues which I have the slightest difficulty meeting, but because I feel most keenly the unbecomingness of the controversy, which must necessarily cause additional suffering to hearts which have already been tried beyond the common lot."

Dr. Mackenzie then describes the hasty circumstances under which he was summoned to Berlin and his first meeting with the German doctors, and says:

"When I had made my examination of the crown prince the other doctors and I withdrew in the ordinary way to discuss the matter. Professors Gerhardt and Tobold gave the positive opinion that the disease was cancerous, and Professor Bergmann, though expressing himself more guardedly, substantially agreed with them. All three were unanimous in thinking that the cutting operation from the outside would be necessary for the removal of the growth. The precise nature of the surgical procedure that would be required was never discussed in my presence; when it came my turn to speak I said there was nothing characteristic in the appearance of the growth and that it was quite impossible to give a definite opinion as to its nature without a more searching examination."

"I pointed out that the opinion expressed by my colleagues had become to me on what seemed to me to be insufficient grounds, and that they had omitted the most essential fund and at the same time the most obvious means of arriving at the correct diagnosis. The first thing to be done was to pick off a piece of the growth through the internal passage, and have it examined microscopically by an expert. Professor Gerhardt said it would be difficult, if not impossible, to do this on account of the awkward situation of the growth and Professor Tobold expressed a similar opinion. While freely admitting that the operation in this case presented exceptional difficulties, I said I thought it could be done and that at any rate it should be attempted. I then turned to Professor Gerhardt and said to him: 'Will you try?' and he replied: 'I cannot operate with the forceps.' I next asked Professor Tobold, as he would make the attempt, but he also declined, saying: 'I no longer operate.'"

Dr. Mackenzie describes the first operation upon the crown prince's throat in removing the piece of growth for Professor Virchow to examine, and says he walked home afterward with the crown prince, who talked seriously about his condition, and expressed extreme dissatisfaction with Professor Gerhardt. Dr. Mackenzie makes an exhaustive defense against the accusation of the German doctors that, in this operation, his forceps seriously injured the vocal chord. He also denies the charge that he took the case out of the hands of the Germans and says:

"They had called me in and I had given my opinion, to which outwardly at least they had subscribed. They distinctly sanctioned the course of treatment which I had laid before them, and, if I may so express it, I received a mandate from them to carry it out. In showing that the German doctors were equally answerable with me I am not trying to transfer any part of the responsibility off my shoulders. I only wish to show the shifting character of the men with whom I had to deal."

"Before returning to England I was informed that Professor Gerhardt had applied a red-hot point to the interior of the larynx every day for nearly a fortnight. In all my experience I had never heard of any one applying canterbury to a patient's larynx oftener than once, or at most, twice a week, and I hardly know which to be most astonished at in the present instance, the therapeutic energy of the physician or the endurance of the patient. On twelve consecutive days, according to his own admission, did this physician burn the crown prince's larynx with a red-hot wire, and again on four subsequent occasions, at short intervals. Finally, as if all this were not enough, he thought it necessary to sear the edge of the vocal cord with a flat burner. There is no record in medical literature, so far as I am aware, in which canterbury—a most valuable agent if properly handled—was so terribly misused."

Dr. Mackenzie dwells in detail on the visit to San Remo and the confirmation of his worst fears in November that the disease was cancer. He says that the crown prince received the communication with perfect coolness.

"After a moment of silence he grasped my hand and said, with that smile of peculiar sweetness which so well expressed the mingled gentleness and strength of his character: 'I have lately been fearing something of this sort; I thank you, Sir Morell, for being so frank with me.' In all my long experience I have never seen a man bear himself under similar circumstances with such unaffected heroism."

Here is Dr. Mackenzie's description of the operation of tracheotomy:

"When everything was ready the crown prince passed through an adjoining room into the ordinary sitting room, where it was arranged the operation was to be performed. The bed was placed opposite one of the windows so that there was excellent light. Dr. Bergmann proceeded to give the chloroform, but soon the crown prince became unconscious and the administration was continued by Dr. Kranke while I kept my finger on the pulse of the left wrist. Shortly after Dr. Bergmann had made his first incision I noticed that the pulse had become very weak and the face was blanched; in fact, there were evident signs of cardiac weakness. On raising the eyelid the pupil was seen to be widely dilated. The administration of chloroform was suspended a minute or two, when the pulse became fairly good again and the operation was proceeded with; after this instant Dr. Bergmann seemed to become a little hurried though not to such an extent as to prevent him from operating with skill."

"In opening the windpipe, however, I noticed that he made his incision a little to the right instead of in the middle of the line. The deviation appeared to me so slight at the time that I attached no importance to it. After opening the trachea, instead of at once plunging in the canula, as is usually done by English surgeons, Dr. Bergmann held aside the two sides of the wound for a minute or two, until the bleeding had ceased, and then inserted a very large, long and somewhat funnel-shaped tube. I will frankly own that the delay in introducing the canula seemed to me an improvement on the ordinary plan of plunging the tube into the windpipe, as soon as it is open, a proceeding which usually sets up severe spasms and coughing. When the operation was completed I congratulated Dr. Bergmann on his success."

Dr. Mackenzie describes in detail the bickering among the doctors in the gloomy days following this operation, about the proper kind of a tube to be used in the throat, and says: "My tube was tried too late."

On the fatal day, April 12, the emperor was rapidly sinking, and Dr. Mackenzie determined to try a new tube. He says:

"As soon as the new tube was ready I dispatched a messenger to Professor Bergmann to request him to come to me, as soon as possible, meaning, of course, that I was anxious to proceed to change the tube without delay. In sending off that messenger little did I think that it would have such fatal consequences. Had I had the slightest idea of what was to follow I should certainly not have allowed any overpunctilious notions of etiquette to mislead me into taking so disastrous a step. At that moment, however, it appeared to me the right thing to do."

Dr. Mackenzie says Professor Bergmann was greatly excited when he arrived and behaved in a most unaccountable manner. He continues:

"We then proceeded to the emperor's room. We found the emperor engaged in writing. His inspiration was distinctly audible, but beyond this there was not the slightest indication of any difficulty in breathing. Dr. Bergmann placed a chair opposite the window and asked the emperor to sit down upon it, and thereupon, without making any remark, he quickly undid the tape which kept the canula in position, pulled the latter out, and, with considerable force, endeavored to insert one when he beheld in his hand, and which was not provided with a pin instrument. It was forced into the neck, but no air came through it. The emperor's breathing thereupon became very much embarrassed, and the professor withdrew the tube. This was followed by a violent fit of coughing, and there was considerable hemorrhage."

"Professor Bergmann next seized a tampion canula covered with sponge, cut the sponge quickly off and tried to push the tube into the wind pipe. Again, no air came through the canula, and it was clear that instead of entering the air passage it had been forced downwards to the front trachea, ploughing up the soft tissues in that situation and making what is technically known as a false passage. Again the professor made to pull out the tube, and again its withdrawal was followed by violent coughing and streams of blood. To my consternation, Professor Bergmann then pushed his finger deeply into the wound, and on withdrawing it tried to insert another tube. He again failed, however, and again the attempt was followed as before by the most distressing coughing and copious bleeding."

The result of this bungling, Dr. Mackenzie goes on to say, was that Professor Bergmann's assistant was called in to finish the job.

"After the operation," says Dr. Mackenzie, "the emperor sent for me and asked: 'Why did Bergmann put his finger into my throat?' His majesty then went on to say: 'I hope you will not allow Professor Bergmann to do any further operations on me.' I answered: 'After what I have seen to-day, sir, I beg most respectfully to say that I can no longer have the honor of continuing in attendance on your imperial highness, if Professor Bergmann is to be permitted to touch your throat again.'"

Professor Bergmann's roughness was never forgotten by the emperor, although the nobility of his nature prevented him from showing any resentment. There is nothing particularly new in Dr. Mackenzie's account of the last hours of the emperor, but he alleges that a few hours after the emperor's death Prince Bismarck tried to get him into a trap by demanding a hasty official report. The remainder of the book is devoted to controversial topics and statistical matters which will interest scarcely any but professional men.

Five Girls Indicted for Arson.

ADRIAN, Mich., Oct. 15.—At the session of the circuit court Friday morning, five girls were arraigned, charged with arson, the offense consisting of an attempt to burn Creswell cottage on the 30th of September. The girls all plead guilty. The court gave the culprits a week in which to get their parents and friends here to speak for them, and will pass sentence Friday next.

The Trade of the Week

THE INFLUENCE OF SPECULATION SHOWN BY IT.

LEGITIMATE BUSINESS RETARDED BY THE FLUCTUATIONS.

Flour Has Advanced 30 to 43 Per Cent.

Wheat Strengthened By the Government Crop Report—Exports Have Virtually Stopped—Cotton Reports Less Satisfactory—Business Failures.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says the past week has shown the influence of speculation and the artificial nature of current prices. Wheat rose about eight cents per bushel, broke eleven cents in two days, and again rose rapidly, closing one and one-half cents higher than a week ago. Corn advanced a fraction, but receded. Oats have risen a quarter, and coffee about three quarters of a cent, but lard has fallen nearly one cent, and the fictitious prices in cotton have yielded, with quotations half a cent lower. Oil has fallen one and one-half cents, and the sudden advance in hides, having resulted in dullness, prices have yielded half a cent.

These fluctuations, in the main, without any reasons in conditions of demand and supply, have a tendency to retard all legitimate business. Clearings at cities outside New York show all increase of 16 per cent. over last year, with gains of 39 1-2 per cent. at Chicago and 12 per cent. at St. Louis, where the wheat speculation rages, and 21 per cent at Boston, where stocks have been fluctuating wildly. The government crop report strengthened wheat, pointing to a yield of about 407,000,000 bushels by measure. Estimates of shortage in weight range from three to eight pounds per bushel, but flour has advanced from $1.15 for shipping grades to $2.40 per barrel for patents, or 30 to 43 per cent. If the rise in the price of bread, as yet only one-sixth, leads to a fall of a sixth in the quantity purchased, the difference would be greater than the shrinkage of wheat at the largest estimate.

Exports have been virtually stopped; from Atlantic ports only 270,485 bushels went out last week. Meanwhile the corn crop is estimated at 2,110,000,000 bushels, and cheapness of corn tends to lessen the home demand for wheat. Advances as to cotton are less satisfactory, and in Louisiana, Mississippi and eastern and states the yield will fall below last year's; but the market declines, because the previous prices were fictitious. Interior reports show that business continues satisfactorily active. At Nashville and New Orleans money is somewhat tighter, and at Baltimore southern collections are reported very unsatisfactory as yet.

The capacity of iron furnaces in blast October 1 was 119,189 tons weekly, of anthracite and coke iron only, against 114,523 tons September 1 and 128,563 tons a year ago. The changes in charcoal iron are probably not large. The markets are firmer and $18.50 is quoted at Philadelphia. Bar iron is firm at the recent advance, and the fact that only $5 a ton is asked in exchange of new steel for old iron rails led to some sales, of which 12,000 tons are reported for eastern mills. Foot and shoe buyers are slow; the west reports that an advance in prices cannot be made. In dry goods there is a general complaint of dullness, and many look for no change until after the election.

During the week $2,700,000 has been paid out by the treasury in excess of receipts, and the impression that the expansion of currency has nearly come to an end for the season has some influence upon the markets. Stocks have hesitated, but the prevailing tone is confident. Merchandise imports last week were 11 per cent. smaller than last year's, and exports from New York also show a shrinkage of 6 per cent.

The business failures number 227, as compared with a total of 211 last week and 220 the week previous. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 202.

A WOMAN EXECUTED.

Pauline McCoy, Colored, Hanged at Union Springs, Alabama, For Murder.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 15.—Pauline McCoy, colored, who was hanged at Union Springs at 10 o'clock Friday for the murder of Annie Jordan, white, last February, was the third woman hanged in Alabama since its incorporation as a state, and the first since the war. On the scaffold the woman broke down completely, and had to be supported on the trap by two deputy sheriffs. She had not eaten anything for a day or two, and was kept up by the use of stimulants. She admitted having killed the girl in her last speech, but denied that her motive was robbery.

The crime for which the woman was hanged had not its equal in the whole criminal history of Alabama. Her victim had strayed away from her home in this city, being demented, and meeting Pauline down the railroad asked her to accompany her. That was the last seen of Annie, the fourteen-year-old child, until her dead body was discovered in a plum thicket near the roadside several days after. Pauline was seen in Union Springs a few days later, wearing the shoes, hat and jacket belonging to her victim. She was arrested, and said, under oath, that her father, Jake McCoy, killed the girl and brought the clothes home. At the preliminary hearing Jake was discharged, and Pauline committed to jail. On her final trial in August she was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged, which sentence was faithfully carried out.

Phishing Bank Goes Under.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 15.—The Farmers' and Mechanics' bank, of the South Side, has closed its doors. The cause of the suspension is not yet known. The bank has a capital stock of $150,000.

That Speech of Chaplain's.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—The story telegraphed from here that Secretary of State Chaplain had made a war-like speech against the United States is entirely untrue.

To Be Hanged in Canada.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., Oct. 15.—James F. Farley, of Philadelphia, will be hanged November 8, for killing Simon Elizab.

RAPID CITY, Dak., Oct. 15.—The pay-car on the Home Stake (narrow gauge) railroad at Reno Gulch was thrown from the track by the removal of several rails Friday morning, and fire was at once opened upon the car by three masked men. In the car were Paymaster W. A. Reemer, Engineer Blackstone and Hans Anderson. The paymaster returned the fire of the robbers, wounding two of them severely. The third escaped unhurt. One of the wounded men was captured and is in jail. He will probably die of his wounds. His name is John Wilson.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,
GROVER CLEVELAND,
 of New York.

For Vice President,
ALLAN G. THURMAN, of Ohio.

For Congress,
THOMAS H. PAYNTER, of Greenup County.

STILL THEY COME.

Converts to Cleveland a Prominent Feature of This Campaign—Cheering Words.

In the Iron ward of Cleveland there is a Cleveland and Thurman Club composed of 140 operatives, 70 of whom have heretofore voted nothing but the Republican ticket.

The Independent Tariff Reform Club, of South Orange, New Jersey, has on its rolls the names of 100 Republicans, who are doing all they can to secure the reelection of President Cleveland.

Three hundred members of the New York Cotton Exchange who voted for Blaine in 1884 have organized a Cleveland and Thurman Campaign Club and will vote the Democratic ticket in November.

In Dunkirk, New York, forty-two Irish-Americans voted for Blaine four years ago. Now all but three of them belong to a Cleveland and Thurman Club. In Buffalo Blaine received fully six hundred Irish-American votes. Harrison, it is said, will not get fifty.

Major William Stitt, formerly of Millersburg, Ky., writes from California. "My opinion is that California will go for Cleveland and Thurman by at least 10,000 majority. Harrison's Chinese record is certain to lose him this State, and also Oregon and Nevada—certainly California. Judge Thurman is 5,000 votes stronger here than either the party or Mr. Cleveland. All the boys love the old Roman, as he stood up for them against the Chinese ten or twelve years ago."

A. C. Hood, of Adams Co., O., has come over to the party of the people. He believes in a reduction of the tariff. He has been a Republican for years, but says his eyes have at last been opened.

Henry B. Hickley, a cutlery manufacturer of Northampton, Massachusetts, has been asked for some "fat" by the Republican National Committee. Although and old-time Republican, he replied that he believed the party was wrong on the tariff question and that he would not give it a cent to save it from perdition.

Carl Schurz, the great German muggump, has been heard from. He is for Cleveland.

Joe Jefferson, the famous actor, with his two sons will vote for Cleveland. The actor is 58 years of age, and has never voted for President. His home is in New Jersey. Mr. Jefferson thinks the country never had such a President as Mr. Cleveland.

Charles McVeagh, son of Wayne McVeagh, and a nephew of Senator Don Cameron, has tendered his services to the Democratic National Committee as a stump. His father was Attorney-General under Hayes.

In the Democratic Club at Corning, Ohio, there are twenty-two members who never before voted any thing but the Republican ticket, and almost as many more Republicans have announced their determination to join the club.

The conservative estimate places the net number of changes to the Democracy, in Perry County, Ohio at 150.

At Chicago, Elector-at-Large C. H. Schwab, leading boot and shoe merchant, has gathered the names of fifty men in that line who will not vote for General Harrison, though they are Republicans. They like Cleveland and think he has made an excellent President, and are in favor of tariff reform and the Mills bill. Mr. Schwab has also a list of manufacturers, professional men and retail merchants who have given him personal assurance of their purpose to cast their ballots for the first time for the Democratic candidate. A leading Board of Trade man has also made up a list of forty names of men on the Board who will vote for Mr. Cleveland in preference to General Harrison, although they are Republicans.

CAME OUT EVEN.

The Germantown Fair Company Not a Loser, but the Meeting was Hard on Buyers of Privileges.

Better Attendance on Saturday Than Expected—List of Premiums Awarded—Notes.

The attendance at the Germantown fair Saturday was much better than expected. About twenty-five hundred people were present.

The company does not lose anything on the meeting, but the buyers of privileges suffer.

There was another fine show of stock Saturday, although the arena was in worse condition than ever before known by those who have attended the fair from the first ever held there.

Following is a list of the premiums awarded Saturday:

Best model stallion; A. R. Mullins, Covington, $10.

Model mare; "Lady DeJarnette," W. H. Wilson, Cincinnati, $10.

Model gelding; Thomas L. Best, Mason County, $10.

In the boy's riding match, the first premium—overcoat, value $15, given by Louis Zech & Co., of Maysville—was won by William Ware, of Bracken County; the second premium—a linen bridle, value $6, given by R. A. Tonp, of Maysville—was awarded Harry Lee, of Mason County.

Lee Norris, of Fern Leaf, was awarded the premium in gent's riding match—200 of Frank Devine's best brand of cigars, value $7.

A. R. Mullins, of Covington, got the premium—$10—for fancy turnout.

In the mechanical department of the floral hall, the "Superior" grain drill—R. H. Newell, of this city, agent—won the ribbon over the "Hoosier" drill, and the "Hickory Wagon"—R. H. Newell, agent—got the premium over the "Owensboro." A full list of the rest of the floral hall premiums will be published later.

NOTES.

There was a conspicuous absence of white dresses.

A new South wing has been erected to the floral hall.

Gondolas could have been utilized in the show ring.

It was a cold day Saturday and many were left—without gum boots.

Haucke's band discoursed an excellent programme each day—between shivers.

The BULLETIN is indebted to Dr. H. B. Savage and Mr. H. S. True for many favors.

The gallery gods were few but not far between. The temperature caused the affinity.

The old time yell emanating from the "betting crowd" seemed to have lost none of its resonance.

The weather was very disagreeable, but many fair ladies graced the occasion with their charming presence.

Bob Kirk officiated in the capacity of transferring judges from the amphitheatre to the band stand on horseback.

The incessant rainfall made the ring very muddy, and exhibitors of stock deservedly earned the premiums which they won.

J. A. Walton, the obliging Secretary, in addition to attending to the imperative duties of that office, found time to be with his numerous lady friends.

Haucke's band crowned themselves with laurels by the admirable rendition of their popular music. J. I. Mathews rendered two cornet solos each day.

The new band stand is a beauty, of an octagonal Gothic design, with Japanese trimmings, surmounted with a fifty-foot spire, from which the national flag was suspended.

The symmetrical rotundity of the genial President, D. Frank Frazee, was plainly visible in the crowd. He was on every hand, exchanging greetings and bidding welcome to those who had braved the rain and mud.

Miss Vaughn, of Arkansas, Miss Frey, of Pittsburg, Miss Frazee, of Mississippi, Misses Savage and Boston of Missouri, Miss Taylor, of Catlettsburg, and Miss Thomas, of Bellevue, Ky., were among the very fair of the fair sex present. Credit is due them for assistance in decorating and arranging the Floral Hall so artistically.

In Kentucky, 1,678 farmers raised, in 1886, 17,458 acres of tobacco; in 1887, 11,242 acres; in 1888, 18,242.

COLONEL BOB LYNN, the well-known sporting man, has accepted a bet of $1,000 even that Harrison will carry New York.

At Newport Saturday, in the condemnation proceedings of the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad against the Licking Turnpike Company the jury awarded $2,000 damages.

A ROSSING meeting of the Democracy of Lewisburg is expected on Monday night, Oct. 22nd, at 7 o'clock. Councilmen Wood and Poyntz are among the speakers announced. Hon. Thomas H. Paynter, Democratic nominee, will be present and deliver an address.

JUDGE COONS and Messrs. W. LaRue Thomas, L. C. Blatterman, W. N. Howe, J. H. Sallee, Geo. W. Rogers and Lee Browning are among the delegates who left yesterday to attend the annual meeting of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Masons, at Louisville, this week.

PROFESSOR LEARY is here again to teach his specialty—practical double entry Bookkeeping—as it is taught by no one else. He will commence organizing a night class immediately, and can be seen at J. C. Pecor's book store. This is a rare opportunity for the young men of Maysville.

MRS. MEDORA HENSON-EMERSON won the hearts of every one in the audience with her voice, which was pure, sweet and most tremendously powerful when she wished. She is a handsome woman, and the grand opera could not claim a more deserving artist.—Exchange.

Mrs. Emerson is with the Boston Stars, who appear at the opera house to-morrow night. Don't fail to be there.

THE Maysville Republican issued a supplement Saturday containing Blaine's New York speech. The Boston Post says of this speech:

"It is boldly characterized by the unswerving king of humbug. A more audacious misstatement and perversion of the facts of history was never ventured before an audience supposed to possess ordinary intelligence."

Blaine is known to be the most ardent demagogue in the land, and it will be a cold day when the people put faith in what he says.

Its Delicacy of Flavor

and the efficacy of its action have rendered fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, immensely popular. It cleanses and tones up the clogged and feverish system, and dispels headaches, colds and fevers. For sale in 50 cent and $1 bottles.

The Colored Voters.

Chattanooga has a colored Democratic club with one hundred members.

Sixteen leading colored newspapers in the North are supporting Cleveland and Thurman.

Recorder Trotter, the colored appointee of President Cleveland, thinks there are enough colored Democrats in Indiana and Illinois to give those States to Cleveland.

Warning.

Hon. Peter H. Clark, a colored Democrat of Cincinnati, is expected to address the people of Maysville and vicinity at the court house to-night.

It is rumored that some of the colored Republicans will endeavor to break up the meeting. The law provides a heavy penalty for such acts, and the law will be enforced. Officers will be present to preserve order. If Republican "smart Alecks" are instigating their colored brethren to make such an attempt, they will have their hands full before it is ended.

Stock, Field and Farm.

R. K. Hart, of Poplar Plains, lately sold twenty-four horses at an average of $100.

Fifteen per cent. of the tobacco in Fleming is injured more or less by the frost. Some of it is ruined.

Woodward & Harbison, of Lexington, sold $90,485 worth of horses in four days this week—123 head for $49,840.

Mt. Olivet Democrat: "The frost nipped more tobacco in Robertson than was at first supposed. Very few crops in the county were gotten in before the frost came and all that was out suffered more or less, some localities of course suffering more than others."

M. Kahn up to last Friday has paid out $115,000 in Montgomery County for cattle, and three times as much in Bourbon County, this season. Last week he purchased of James E. Clay 100 head averaging 1,500 pounds, at $5.25, and of Bedford & Kennedy 30 head, 1,600 pounds average, at $5.25.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

The Talk of England.

MORE EXPENSES, INCREASED ESTIMATES FOR THE FUTURE,

AND A WELL-FOUNDED DISTRUST FOR ALL THE NATIONS OF EUROPE.

It is All Caused by the Publication of Emperor Frederick's Diary—Liberals Everywhere Regret His Untimely Death—The French Crisis—Various Other Foreign News Notes.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—More expenses, increased estimates for the future, and a well-founded distrust of all nations in Europe. These are the dominating topics of discussion in England.

It is nothing novel that a little printed matter should create a good deal of commotion, but the consequences of the publication of Emperor Frederick's diary have been diverse and far-reaching. The general tenor of the extracts has caused Liberals everywhere to regret his untimely death, acquainted with the world with the true nobleness of the man, awakened in Germany a controversy that will furnish students of history with an exhaustive subject for study, and aroused England to a terrified comprehension of the estimation in which she was held in 1870, and the probable feeling of other powers toward her at the present day.

That Napoleon III., after the battle of Sedan, should coolly propose to unite the French and German armies and recoup their respective governments for the expenditures and loss of life which they had endured, by conquering and pillaging England, could only slightly increase the evil opinion of him, which the English have maintained for a score of years, but that the crown prince, the son-in-law of their queen, should chronicle such a proposition without the faintest comment upon it and no intimation that he regarded it as peculiarly atrocious has almost unsettled the British mind.

To be sure it is very doubtful that Louis Napoleon could have delivered the goods. Paris was resounding with execrations against him, and the army of Bazaine, the only one intact, would hardly have fraternized at the word of command with the Prussians who were cutting their throats the day before, but the comments of the press on the off-hand line in Frederick's diary reveal the humiliation in England at the matter of the course in which her ruin was spoken of, and the certainty of success which appeared to be entertained of the united efforts of France and Germany.

The Times comes to the conclusion, very late in the day it would seem, that England is detested by other powers.

Envious of her wealth, trade colonies and freedom from conscription, and the specter of a United States to which she would not greet with cynical indifference, if not with hostile delight, an invasion of England and the disruption of the gigantic British empire.

In the present state of feeling no money or efforts will be spared to render impassable the little strip of water that is more to be depended upon by England than all the red coats men at her command—the English channel.

The French Crisis.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—In an address at a political banquet M. Floquet, the prime minister, although he had been appraised that a majority of the guests were against the proposition to revise the constitution, intimated that the government was determined to proceed with the scheme as the only remedy for the present situation.

Prime Minister Floquet declares that he will resign if the project for the revision of the constitution is rejected, or has to be adopted by a majority secured by a coalition. He further declares that he will only accept the vote of a Republican majority adopting the project.

This will prove to be the great crisis in French politics. Everything will depend upon the character of the proposed revision. It seems to be hardly possible to frame a scheme that will be satisfactory to both the radical and conservative Republicans. The attempt at revision is a necessity, although it will place the republic in the balance, and may end in revolution.

Stalled With the Reception.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The North German Gazette expresses great satisfaction at the emperor's reception in Rome the warmth and enthusiasm of which minimizes every German patriot. The homage of the masses undisturbed by a single untoward incident, is eloquently alluded to as affording the best proof of the strength of the alliance.

Foreign Notes.

A rich petroleum well has been discovered at Anderton, in Cheshire.

Le Temps states that the Italian consul at Tunis has instructed the directors of the Italian schools there to refuse admission to the French inspectors.

A French cruiser has arrived at Zanzibar for the purpose of preventing the use of the French flag by slavers as a cover to their trade.

Gen. Seide-Thelemagne, of Hayti, having been killed in a revolutionary attack on the palais National at Port-au-Prince defended by the provisional government, Gen. Legitime is the only candidate for the presidency and has probably been already elected.

Gen. Goodenough, who inspected and reported on the defenses of Malta, is now on his way to Halifax under orders from the war office to make a thorough inspection of the fortifications. He will meet Maj. G. S. Clarke, R. E., who has just arrived from England.

A Trusted Clerk Goes Wrong.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A Herald special from Little Rock, Ark., says Maj. C. C. Dean, the trusted clerk of Maj. John D. Adams, the steamboat owner, planter and capitalist, is a defaulter and has left for parts unknown. The amount of Dean's shortage is unknown. He had his employees' business so completely in his own hands, that Maj. Adams himself is unable to tell anything about it. Dean moved in the best society, and his action has caused a great sensation.

Freight House Burned.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15.—The Vandalla freight house in East St. Louis was burned Saturday. Fifteen freight cars and 300 bales of cotton were destroyed. The East St. Louis hotel was badly damaged. Loss $30,000. This is the second destruction of the Vandalla's freight house within a few years. There was a panic among the guests of the hotel.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

No Signs of a Settlement—Dynamite Arranged—Trial Postponed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—At a conference of a citizens' committee, the mayor and the strikers' executive committee Friday, it was agreed that the strikers would declare the strike off, provided Mr. Yerkes consent to give the North Side men the same privileges which the West Side men enjoyed before the strike, the company to retain the new men hired during the strike. About this time Mr. Yerkes arrived and was admitted to the conference. The first difficulty in the way was that there would not be places for all of the old men. The mayor and citizens' committee withdrew at this point, leaving Mr. Yerkes with the strikers' committee.

Shortly after midnight word was received from the street car men's meeting that contrary to predictions the West Side men would resume work in the morning. They agreed with the North Side men upon a scale of wages, which, if Mr. Yerkes' proposition does not meet, will not be lowered. In that case the West Siders proposed to fall back on their proposition and again quit work in a body.

What was at first thought to be only the work of one crank has turned out to be a well organized dynamite conspiracy to blow up the street cars and other property of the North Side Street Car company. Three arrests have been made and two more of the alleged conspirators, the police say, will shortly be taken into custody.

Julius Katesberger, who was caught in the act of placing four small bombs on the tracks on Sedgwick street, by Detectives Cudmore and Meier, and Thomas H. Nicholson and Peter G. Thompson were arraigned before Justice Kersten. As Capt. Senack was not ready for trial, the case was continued for ten days. The prisoners were released on furnishing $10,000 bonds each.

"It was a murderous conspiracy," said Attorney Furthmann. "The conspirators intended to destroy both property and life, but their little scheme was nipped in the bud."

The committee of North Side employees met Mr. Yerkes at 11 o'clock. No agreement was reached and the committee left. Mr. Yerkes said: "The agitators on the West Side adopted resolutions regarding the strike and brought into the dispute questions which I cannot consider. We could not agree."

The committee will return again but there are little prospects of a settlement.

Mr. Yerkes explained to the committee that the West Side resolutions Friday gave him new things to consider aside from what was agreed on in the mayor's office.

QUARANTINE RAISED

At Jackson, Mississippi—The Situation at Other Points.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 15.—Many refugees entered the city Friday morning, quarantine having been raised at 10 o'clock. All the stores are again open and business generally has been resumed. It will be several days before passenger trains will stop here, the state board of health not having yet given the order to have them do so. There is general rejoicing here over the disappearance of the fever.

Avoided the Guards.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 15.—James R. Holley, reporter of the Age, has been arrested for harboring Lucian M. Adkins, correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who, after visiting Decatur, Ala., and Jacksonville, Fla., skipped through the cordon of quarantine guards here, and was taken with a slight chill. This fact got noisier abroad. He left on a midnight train for Louisville, Holley, it is claimed, aiding him to avoid the officers. Holley was subsequently discharged from custody.

At Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15.—There was an increase in the fever Friday, thirty-six new cases being reported and four deaths. The total number of deaths reported to date is 508.

Land-slide at Vicksburg.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Oct. 15.—A serious slide in the river bank occurred here Friday, resulting in the loss of one life and the destruction of considerable property. About 4 o'clock a large section of the wharf landing at South Vicksburg, which had been loosened by recent heavy storms, slipped away and crashed into the river. Superintendent Harrison, of the Dummy line, was standing in a freight car, which had been left on the wharf, at the time of the accident. The car was hurled down the embankment, and Mr. Harrison, unable to extricate himself, was carried to the bottom of the river and drowned. The accident was witnessed by several people, but all were powerless to tender any assistance.

A Defaulting Agent Disappears.

MASON CITY, Iowa, Oct. 15.—Perry Welsh, agent of John Paul's lumber yard at Britt, has disappeared after defaulting the company out of quite a sum of money. A number of citizens hold notes against him, each having John Paul's name forged to it. Women and whisky prompted him to crime. He leaves behind a wife and family.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

OF—
A Valuable Scott County Farm,
TOBACCO LAND, &c.

As Administrator of Dr. C. J. Blackburn, deceased, I will sell to the highest bidder, on WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24th,

1888, at 12 o'clock M., on the premises, two miles north of White Sulphur, Scott County, Ky., one-half mile from the Sinking Ground and Frankfort Turnpike, the old homestead, Warwick, containing more or less, subject to survey. Nearly all in grass, except about fifty acres already this fall seeded to wheat and rye, which advantage the purchaser will get without charge, forty acres in valuable timber, sufficient to furnish lumber to build tobacco barns and other improvements, and the land when cleared will be virgin soil for tobacco, and there is also about forty acres of cleared land that has been in grass more than thirty years that can not be excelled for the growth of the finest quality of tobacco. Also a great deal of sound forest timber. The improvements consist of a substantial old stone mansion with seven rooms, also servants' houses, smoke houses, hen house, stable, cribs, sheds, etc., with a large cistern filled with clear drinking water, large garden, apple orchard, etc., about three-fourths mile of stone fence, and only about two miles from North Elkhorn Creek; convenient to mills, churches, schools, etc.; two miles from the celebrated Catalis school, The Sisters of Visitation, near White Sulphur, on the Georgetown and Frankfort Turnpike. Good judges are of the opinion that the timber and tobacco land will pay for the whole farm in two years.

The taxes in Scott County are not nearly so high as in many of the surrounding counties, and as the land is expected to sell at a bargain, a thrifty farmer can make money in the purchase.

TERMS—One-half cash, the balance in one and two years, with 6 per cent. interest. Possession given March 1st, 1889. For further information address

ELLEY BLACKBURN, Adm'r., Georgetown, Ky., Or Newton & John Northcutt, on the premises, White Sulphur, Ky.

Also fourteen shares of Stamping Ground and Frankfort Turnpike stock.
